It's another lucky day....you have just inherited a million dollars. Now you need to decide what you will do with it. Think about your own life and see what you would use this pile of money for. Think about your family, think of how you would support your family. Does your community or our Global Family have needs you have wanted to do something about? From all the ways you could use your bags of cash .....and without considering others opinions of what for them is good or bad, you can choose the list of how you would use your surprise inheritance at this very time in your life, and write them in the spaces above. Think about why you choose the different things that you have, for these will be more signpost for discovering the most meaningful for you.
